St Louis Auto Show Jan 27 2007

By Vic Nettle

A small group from Gateway GTO Association met at the Convention center to inspect the new autos on display. Members present included: Steve, Tammy, Lucas Hedrick and friend Katelin; Mark Obukowicz; Shauna Wollmershauser; and Vic Nettle.

The 2008 Dodge Challenger was on display and is a very attractive package. Notable by its absence was the upcoming Camaro. Maybe I am just getting old (I am getting old) but even though the horsepower numbers are getting to be impressive, all the engine compartments looked so full that they would be a nightmare to work on. Pity the poor mechanics.

Oh yes the 600 hp Viper, 500 hp Mustang GT500, and the 505 hp ZO6 Corvette, are fun to look at. But are we going to buy one? Where could you park one and expect it to still be there when you returned?

Just give me an LS2 powered Pontiac G5, but I did not see any at the car show. Oh well, maybe next year.

Afterwards we all went for a bite to eat at O'Connell's (Kingshighway and Shaw) where John Folluo joined the group of 7 from the auto show. Cheeseburgers, chili, and onion rings were some of the tasty selections. Food and conversation lasted until about 10:30.

It was a fun night.

Grand Prix Racing Feb 11th, 2007

The day was sunshiny and clear, and the temperature was warm enough in the sun. GTOs started accumulating about noon.

We chatted for a while and went inside where the racers paid for their tickets. At about 12:30 the racers went to a driving instruction course, donned their driving suits, and waited for the races to begin at 1:00.

KEEP AN EYE ON YOUR GOAT

Most enthusiasts will agree that any performance vehicle should contain a plethora of gauges to monitor engine vitals, and in today's new-car market, virtually every car does. One gripe commonly heard from the late-model GTO crowd, however, is the lack of oil-pressure and volt gauges. Though analog gauges from an aftermarket manufacturer are an obvious option, none exactly match the GTO instrument cluster, leaving many owners pondering the unknown. But GTO owners shouldn't feel alone—the Holden counterparts suffered from the same affliction.

JHP Vehicle Enhancements of Blackburn in Victoria, Australia, engineered complete Sports Binnacle kits for Holden Monaro and Commodore owners who want full instrumentation while maintaining the factory appearance. The single, dash-mounted pod contains individual oil-pressure and volt gauges that are angled toward the driver for maximum visibility. Since Holden vehicles are righthand-drive, the Monaro's Sports Binnacle kit isn't compatible with the lefthand-drive GTO.

Well, the company has just remedied that. Its latest offering is a Sports Binnacle kit for lefthand GTOs. The gauges come in a number of different colored backings to match your GTO's instrument cluster, and the company says all necessary wiring and instruction is included for easy installation. Delivered pricing to U.S. addresses for the '04 GTO Sports Binnacle kit starts at $595, while the '05-'06 GTO kit starts at $435.

JHP Vehicle Enhancements, Dept HPP, 28 Cottage St., Blackburn, Victoria 3130, Australia; 03 9877 0888; www.jhp.com.au.

New jersey-based SLP Performance Parts offers improved performance, looks, and sound for 2005-2006 GTOs in its 421 HP Bobcat Performance Pac. Complete with "421 BOBCAT" fender badges, this affordable system includes several items to help your Goat perform its best. A 160 thermostat allows cooler running temperatures, and a high-flow filter increases the air available to the LS2 engine. Providing an aggressive rumble is SLP's stainless steel "Loud Mouth" cat-back exhaust, which incorporates SLP's PowerFlo-X Crossover system, twin resonators, and 3.5-inch angle-cut exhaust tips.

Topping off the package is custom tuning from SLP supplied in the form of a DiabloSport II handheld programmer. This handy item includes spark and fuel maps that enhance the power otherwise provided by the components that make up the 421 Bobcat package. All of these items combine to yield impressive power and torque gains out of your GTO's LS2. An identical package with the quieter "Loud Mouth II" muffled catback is available for a few bucks more under PN 29050.

Speed Inc. Heads & Cam Package—Patriot Heads

COMPANY:	Speed Inc.
VEHICLE:	GTO
PART NUMBER:	N/A
PRICE:	$2,999.99
POWER GAIN:	70-100 hp (rear wheels)

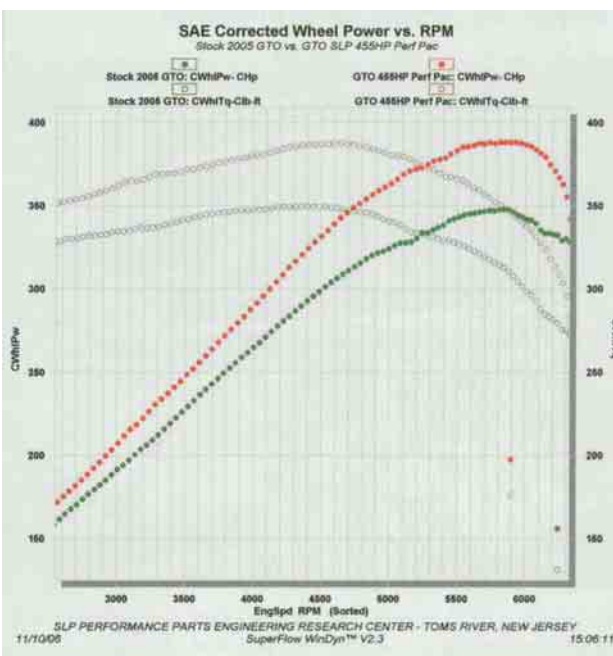

Providing gains of 70-100 rwhp over stock depending on camshaft aggressiveness, Speed Inc.'s mail order GTO heads & cam package includes Stage 2 ported Patriot cylinder heads featuring 2.05-inch intake and 1.57 exhaust valves, as well as the CaMP cam of your choice, chrome-moly CaMP pushrods, and an ASP underdrive pulley. To help ensure the added flow gets out, a set of Stainless Works long-tube headers with off-road pipe (not shown) are also included. Completing the kit are new NGK spark plugs along with all necessary hardware and seals. Did we mention mail order tuning is included as well?

Optional extra cost upgrades include AFR heads and a catted X-pipe. Don't have an LS2 under your Goat's hood? You're in luck: a nearidentical package can be had from Speed Inc. for 2004 GTOs at the same price.

SLP 455 HP Bobcat PerformancePac

COMPANY:	SLP Performance Parts
VEHICLE:	GTO
PART NUMBER:	29040
PRICE:	$3,717.95
POWER GAIN:	See dyno chart (rear wheels)

Designed for 2005-2006 cars, SLP's 455 HP Bobcat PerformancePac can wake up your Pontiac GTG's LS2 in a hurry. The system spec sheet starts with the same list of quality components as the company's 421 HP Bobcat package, and adds in a few notable extras. Long-tube, 1 3/4-inch ceramic-coated headers and a matching PowerFlo-X crossover pipe help further improve exhaust exhalation, and an SLP underdrive pulley reduces parasitic losses incurred in driving engine accessories. The icing on the cake is a set of SLP 1.85-ratio rocker arms, which come with titanium retainers, high-performance valvesprings, keepers, and new hardware.

All of these items bring total power to 455 flywheel horses, and this number is also of course a throwback to legendary Pontiac engines of years past. And you'll get the fender badges to let everyone know about it—that is, if they didn't already notice the incredible improvements in your GTO's sound quality! If a deep rumble isn't quite to your taste, an identical package with the quieter "Loud Mouth II" cat-back is available for a few bucks more. As a package, the total dollars spent equates to a savings of about $100 over buying each of the parts that comprise the kit individually.
